33rd ANNUAL UNIVERSITY OF MONTANA TAX INSTITUTE TO BE HELD DEC. 6-7

MISSOULA -

The University of Montana's School of Law will hold its 33rd Annual University of Montana Tax Institute Dec. 6-7 in the Five Valleys Ballroom, University Center, at the University of Montana.

The Tax Institute is a two-day series of lectures and seminars. Topics this year include the rights of the non-earner spouse in pension plans; successful tax planning with the family investment partnership; valuing small businesses and professional practices; and tax free exchanges and installment sales after the 1984 Tax Reform Act.

Featured speakers at the institute will be Michael Brown, professor, University of Montana School of Law; J. Martin Burke, professor, University of Montana School of Law; Dennis Calfee, professor, University of Florida Graduate Tax Program; Owen G. Fiore, tax attorney and director with Hopkins, Mitchell & Carley of Palo Alto, Calif.; Michael K. Friel, associate professor, Willamette University College of Law in Salem, Ore.; Cynthia K. Hauck, Dobbins, DeGuire & Tucker, P.C., of Missoula; Norvie L. Lay, professor, University of Louisville School of Law; Shannon Pratt, founder of Willamette Management Associates of Portland, Ore.; and Myles J. Thomas, senior partner with Crowley, Haughey, Hanson, Toole & Dietrich of Billings.
